To Whom It May Concern,

Jessica Bilello was a very diligent student teacher. She related well to the middle school students and had a “natural” ability to instruct them. She exhibited many commendable qualities which enabled her to educate today’s youngsters. Her professionalism and work ethic went beyond adequate standards. Her use of various teaching methods to accomplish the planned course objectives accommodated the different learning styles of the students. Her control of the classroom environment made it conducive for learning and motivating students to do their best. She collaborated with all of the 7th grade teachers and adjusted her lessons to integrate information from other subject areas.

Jessica participated in many aspects of being a 7th grade teacher. She attended team meetings two times a week, intervention meetings, parent conferences, assignment centers, detention duty and handled homeroom and morning bus duties. She was available to provide remedial assistance in and out of the classroom, and she had a willingness to always work with students and staff to help create a learning atmosphere where students would succeed.

Overall, it is my opinion that Jessica would be a welcome addition in any Secondary English/ Language Arts or middle school classroom.

Sincerely,

Mary Ann Eichenlaub
